

Digital Credential Center

Academic Document Authentication and Delivery Service from CollegeNET

Helping Chinese Students Apply For Admission to US Colleges

The Digital Credential Center from CollegeNET is a secure and reliable web-based service for authenticating and electronically transmitting academic credentials. Through this service, Chinese students applying for admission to US colleges and universities can electronically request their transcripts and other academic documents and have them delivered electronically to the US institutions to which they are applying. The Digital Credential Center provides submitted records and Academic Credential Verification Reports to all licensed US institutions for the purpose of authenticating their applicants' credentials. Created and hosted by CollegeNET, and piloted with Stanford Graduate School and the Ministry of Education in China, the service is the safest, fastest, and most reliable method for international document transmission.

US Institutions Prefer the Digital Credential Center Because:

- They can trust the source and authenticity of every academic document they receive
- Electronic documents arrive faster and are easier to process than paper documents sent via international postal service
- Reduced manual processing saves administrative time and expense and eliminates errors

Your Students Benefit From the Digital Credential Center Because:

- Officially authenticated credentials make their application materials more trustworthy
- They avoid the cost of international certified mailing as well as risks of postal delays and lost documents
- Once credentials are authenticated, they can be electronically accessed by all licensed US institutions the student selects
